ABSTRACT

This presentation develops a territorial analysis of informal employment and its link to the material living conditions of households. Using the Poblaciones.org platform, a map of informal employment in the Buenos Aires Metropolitan Area is constructed and analysed in relation to the Household Material Deprivation Index (INDEC). The study adopts an exploratory spatial analysis approach, based on bivariate maps and territorial typologies, aimed at identifying patterns of co-location between informal employment and material deprivation. The session will be in Spanish with automatic translation into English for those who need it.
